

Section III

15 marks

Allow about 40 minutes for this section

In your answer you will be assessed on how well you:

- demonstrate understanding of the concept of discovery in the context of your study
- analyse, explain and assess the ways belonging is represented in a variety of texts
- organise, develop and express ideas using language appropriate to audience, purpose and context

'Every two days now we create as much information as we did from the dawn of civilization up until 2003, according to Schmidt. That's something like five exabytes of data, he says.

Let me repeat that: we create as much information in two days now as we did from the dawn of man through 2003'. Eric Schmidt <http://techcrunch.com/2010/08/04/schmidt-data/>

Using the argument evident in the statement provided, evaluate how your core text and ONE other texts of your own choosing asserts the challenges of discovery.

Section III

15 marks

Allow about 40 minutes for this section

In your answer you will be assessed on how well you:

- demonstrate understanding of the concept of discovery in the context of your study
- analyse, explain and assess the ways belonging is represented in a variety of texts
- organise, develop and express ideas using language appropriate to audience, purpose and context

‘Anyone who says we have all the answers has not realised the capacity for men to dream new ideas and make new discoveries.’

To what extent has this notion been made evident in your core text and at least ONE other text of your own choosing?

Section III

15 marks

Allow about 40 minutes for this section

In your answer you will be assessed on how well you:

- demonstrate understanding of the concept of discovery in the context of your study
- analyse, explain and assess the ways belonging is represented in a variety of texts
- organise, develop and express ideas using language appropriate to audience, purpose and context

‘Revelations of truths lead us to engage with ideas we would never have trusted before. We are provoked by the ramifications and confronted by our own complicity in creating truths that suit our particular perspectives.’

In what ways have the revelations presented in your core text and ONE related text of your own choice led you to understand our complicity in constructing our own truth.